

“ I believe that the best way to help people understand the world is to provide them with opportunities to actively explore, experiment, and express themselves. ”

~ Mitchel Resnick

Every Teacher is a Maker

I like... I wish ... What if...

Reflections on Teaching & Making

I like...
Teaching

Teaching - Year 15

Cultivating art and creative practices

Collaborating to develop ideas

Creating curriculum to inspire

Fostering my passions and the passions of others

I wish ...

making felt like it was for everyone

Jumping in didn't feel like sink or swim.

Collaborative spaces felt like a safe place to shine

Finding your tribe didn't feel like a lot of work

What if...

teachers saw themselves as makers

“projects, passion, peers, and play. In short, we believe the best way to cultivate creativity is to support people working on projects based on their passions, in collaboration with peers and in a playful spirit.”

— Mitchel Resnick, Lifelong Kindergarten: Cultivating Creativity through Projects, Passion, Peers, and Play

Teachers developed a bias towards action.

Teachers could be courageous & curious

Teachers could be present

Teachers cultivated confidence & creativity

Teachers learned to pause time

If every teacher is a maker...then students are makers too.

edstoria

5-Day
Maker Challenge
for Educators

Every teacher is a maker.

Join Now!
bit.ly/5DayMake

Abigail Joseph @drabigailjoseph

edstoria.com

 edstoria

5-Day
Maker Challenge
for Educators